Tip & Top

On the Farm

The crazy ride made Tip and Top peckish, so they went along to the cowshed, where they found a lot of patch-coated cows returning from the pasture. The cows moored a merry greeting. The boys liked the calf most, and its mother gave them some tasty milk. "From milk, we skim off cream, and from cream we churn butter," explained Grunter. "It smells great, but just wait till you taste it!" They did – and Top licked up every last scrap!

“Allow me to introduce my father, siblings, and other friends,” said Grunter. “This is our neighbour, Mair-Mair the goat, and this is Blanche, her kid.” Neither the goat nor the sheep paid much attention to Tip and Top: to provide good milk for their young, they needed to keep grazing. Grunter’s father was preparing for dinner, and the smell of boiled potatoes was music to Grunter’s snout. But he had no time to eat – he had the whole farm to show the boys.

Tip & Top On the Farm

The holidays are here at last! What do Tip and Top have to look forward to this time? Well, they're heading for their uncle's big farm, where they'll find lots of animals and an extraordinary guide called Grunter, a pig who graduated from farming school. You don't believe us? Then come and see! With beautiful 3-D artwork by world-famous illustrator Vojtěch Kubašta, the pages of this book grunt, moo, miaow, bleat and bark. Our friends Tip and Top are about to embark on a new adventure, so come on, there's no time to lose!
